

DECEMBER 2016

Legge Farrow Addresses the International Association of Drilling Contractors (“IADC”) Biennial Contracts & Risk Management Conference

Legge Farrow partners, Glenn Legge and Michael Wray gave a presentation on New Regulatory Developments Impacting Contractual Risk Allocation & Insurance Coverage at the International Association of Drilling Contractors (“IADC”) biennial Contracts & Risk Management Conference in Houston, Texas. The presentation addressed:

- The evolution and current status of federal statutes and regulations impacting the offshore energy industry.
- Anticipated federal cybersecurity policies and the potential impact of those policies on the Gulf of Mexico operating environment.
- How operators and contractors are attempting to address these threats through risk contractual allocation schemes.
- The current status of insurance coverage for cyberattacks, common exclusions, and the market’s potential response to an increasing demand for cyber-coverage.

Legge, Farrow, Kimmitt, McGrath & Brown L.L.P. is an AV-rated civil litigation firm that represents domestic and foreign companies in federal and state courts. The firm's office is located in Houston and its attorneys are licensed to practice in Texas, Louisiana, New York and California, as well as various federal district and appellate courts in the U.S. The firm provides services to businesses involved in the energy, marine, insurance, construction and technology industries.

For frequent legal updates, follow us on Twitter @LeggeFarrow or on LinkedIn